DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1 and 2, drawn to a method of determining a distribution of ramping times and a method of optimizing the design of a magnetic guidance system, classified in class 600, subclass 422.
 - II. Claims 3-19, drawn to systems for navigating a magnetic medical device, classified in class 335, subclass 177.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions II and I are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because a system for navigating a magnetic medical device need not be used with a method of determining ramping time distribution. The subcombination has separate utility such as determining ramping time for other systems containing electromagnetic coils, i.e. systems not related to magnetic medical devices.

Art Unit: 3737

2. During a telephone conversation with Bryan K. Wheelock on 10/28/02 a provisional election was made without traverse to prosecute the invention of invention II, claims 3-19. Affirmation of this election must be made by applicant in replying to this Office action. Claims 1 and 2 are withdrawn from further consideration by the examiner, 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a non-elected invention.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in-

(1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effect under this subsection of a national application published under section 122(b) only if the international application designating the United States was published under Article 21(2)(a) of such treaty in the English language; or

(2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that a patent shall not be deemed filed in the United States for the purposes of this subsection based on the filing of an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a).

3. Claims 3-5, 8, 10, 11, 13-16, and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by U.S. Patent No. 6,015,414 to Werp et al. Werp et al. disclose a method and apparatus for magnetically navigating a catheter through living tissue. The apparatus has biplanar fluoroscopy cameras that utilize x-ray generators. A patient is placed in a supine position with his/her head extended into a helmet (figures 1A and 1B; column 2, lines 52-64). The apparatus includes six superconducting coils, which are used to apply a magnetic field to navigate the catheter. The arrangement of coils allows for four coils to be substantially in the same plane (figure 2; column 5, lines 32-41).

Art Unit: 3737

The catheter includes a magnetically responsive element, which is acted upon by the coils (figures 3A and 3B; column 5, lines 42-57). A magnetic field of 0.3 Tesla can be realized (column 7, lines 1-16).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claim 17 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Werp et al. Though Werp et al. do not explicitly disclose a patient support having a head and a foot, they do disclose a magnet assembly positioned at the head of the patient. Since the invention of Werp et al. is used for neurosurgery, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to use a patient support that is a bed having a head and a foot to support the patient during a complicated operation.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 6, 7, 9, 12, and 19 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Art Unit: 3737

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure:

U.S. Patent No. 6,014,580 to Blume et al.

U.S. Patent No. 5,654,864 to Ritter et al.

U.S. Patent No. 6,241,671 to Ritter et al.
